LOUISVILLE

Oh! beautiful city of the Falls, How sad, how sorrowful thy wail.

Thy streets are strewn with crumbling walls. This fell before the fearful plague.

How many homes by that strong wind are ruins, that were once so fair!

Where weeping friends search vainly to find The loved ones that are buried there.

Figures groping in the darkness, Haggard forms on all of pain, Seeking for some kind admittance, And some loving all to gain.

"Oh! Louisville, we mourn thy fate," Come earnestly from every mouth,

"And on thy walls will kindly wait, Fair gateway of the sunny South."

Oh! listen to the dying groans That come from the smouldering heap:

A mother's cry for father's money, that she keeps, As they their restless sleep keep.

Still longing, waiting for a sight Of some dear one that's buried there,

Whose eyes are borne out on the night In one long, earnest, pleading prayer.

"Oh! give him his boy, my wife," "My child, my child! Oh, where are they?"

Such words were heard on every side. Oh! bring my darling to me, Sir,

The boy who buried a soldier was, As on the hours sadly sped,

And have him from your debts wild The wounded living and the dead.

The city's pride will soon be laid, Her halls and streets with bodies strewn;

With aid of other States she'll give home, But those that bore, their lives.

Her men will work with strength and zeal. In this time of sorrow and grief,

Until their homes are all restored, Their dead they never can give.

A MOST PROMISING CITY.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement of a big land sale, at Owensboro, Ky., Wednesday, May 14th. Owensboro is the most promising city in Western Kentucky. It has a solid and substantial growth. It is surrounded not only by mineral wealth of vast extent, but by a splendid agricultural country, and added to all its other advantages it is filled with energetic, enterprising people. Line fence is under way. The presence of one of the largest wagon factories in the south, two carriage factories, a chair factory, a wheel factory, two large foundry and machine shops, four planing mills with saw and door factories, twenty-three immense tobacco stemmeries, fifteen distilleries, a plug tobacco works, several cigar factories, an ice factory, three large flour mills, an organ factory, a shoe factory and a multitude of lesser industries in all parts of the city. Street cars, gas, electric light, water works, etc., it has a foundation on which to build a magnificent future. That is people have the energy is shown by the fact that the business men of the place lately subscribed enough money to build a $25,000 four-story building. The people are live and progressive and do not hesitate to put money in any thing that will build up the city. Although one of the youngest of the leading cities of the state, Owensboro yields to none of them in enterprise and is just now the most attractive field in the entire Commonwealth for the investor who is prompt to see the opportunities for profit here presented. Owensboro is not a "boom" and is not suffering from inflated prices, but is growing and developing steadily and rapidly. At present real estate is much lower in price than in other cities in Kentucky that has made half the progress Owensboro has made. The town has nearly trebled its population since 1880; and is now in a position to grow more rapidly than ever before. When her census is taken in 1900 her population will not fall far short of 30,000.

No man has ever yet lost money on Owensboro real estate. The tendency of value being constantly upward as the city grows and as the prospects of the city are now brighter than ever before in her history, it is reasonable to presume that prices will get still higher. If you want to make an investment no matter how small or how large that will pay you handsomely, attend this sale and get hold of some Owensboro real estate.

Booth and Modjeska.

Those who will have the good fortune to attend the coming Booth and Modjeska engagement at the auditorium, Louisville, May 1, 2 and 3, will be very grateful to Mr. Lawrence Barrett for the happy conception of forming such a great combination with the two greatest stars of the stage.

Booth and Modjeska. There is no living actor today who can compare to Mr. Booth, there is not one so devoid of all mannerisms, who has so entirely created his own style, and who is so completely in the character. The critics of Chicago unhesitatingly say that his performances there were the greatest of his life; the fact was demonstrated in the enormous receipts of the three weeks engagement being $72,563. This tour of Booth and Modjeska has been a great success in every way. Mr. Booth has even surpassed his own record, and the fact is that Mrs. Modjeska has more than exceeded all expectations.

Louisville will be the last city where they will appear together, probably the last of the Louisville season. Mr. Booth has no doubt the audience will have a great pleasure to witness this last grand appearance in a great repertoire. The scenic production will be on a grand scale. So one who can attend should miss this great pleasure in store for them.

Certainly this generation will never look upon the like of Mr. Booth again, and to see him now will be a most delightful memory to those fortunate ones who will attend the engagement.

Seats can be secured at 236 Fourth avenue, at D. H. Bailey & Co.'s. Reduced rates rail roads.

To Wed May 13th.

It is reliably reported that Mr. Chas. R. Skillman, of Cloverport, and Miss Sallie Young, of Morganfield, will be married on the 13th of May. Miss Young is the daughter of Mr. J. B. Young, who is one of the leading as well as the most prosperous business men in the county. She comes from one of the best families in the State. Mr. Skillman is a young man of fine appearance, and is a young man of many business qualifications.—Owensboro Inquirer.

LONG BRANCH.

Miss Rosa Hall is visiting Mrs. C. Hendricks.

Mr. A. J. Bickelstaff was in the city last week.

Miss Nellie McGee is on the sick list this week.

Miss Cal Hendricks went to Louisville on Saturday.

Miss Fannie Haynes was visiting Miss Bickelstaff last week.

Long Branch will not have a store, but what the matter with the peddlers.

G. M. Reynolds left for Warren, Pa., last week. His wife will join him in a short time.

Mr. S. H. Dooley expects to try his fortune in Pennsylvania. He leaves next week.

Mr. John T. Ditto has been spending a few days in the city on account of his father's illness.

Mr. Preston, attorney for L. S. L. & T. H. K. was down last week making estimate of stock killed on the railroad.

Notice the papers are making mention of stout about tariff, cheap silks for the rich and expensive cottons for the poor.

The good farmers are taking advantage of the beautiful weather we are now having and pushing their work to get their crops in.

Mr. F. Ditto, sr., is expected down in a few days to spend some time to try and recuperate his health, as it has not been good for several weeks.

Kentucky Rock Gas Co. has twice shut down the pumps thinking summer had come and gas would not be in demand, but each time the wind came up and pumps still held their places.

Mr. C. Weaver Parsons, engineer for Kentucky Rock Gas Co., is still in the city. His family continues camping at Long Branch this season. We will gladly welcome them to our little village.

BEWLEYSVILLE.

When he says that he sells you at $1.00 the brogan shoe that the Cash store sells at $1.00 is a mistake. The Cash kept it when it first opened at 50c, but as the independent Wheelers wanted a better article it kept keeping it. Now I have it again at the same old price. The shoe the Cash sells at $1.20 you haven't got. If you sell 150 test coal oil at 10 in that you beat the Cash and are like the monkey that you used to read about in the Second Reader, having yourself pretty badly. This is certainly bad Wheelerism as it will result in bankruptcy and general demoralization to the trade. You may however work it as they do over here at Sharpley. Find that your customer knows the price of some small article at the Cash, a one and a half tin bucket for instance, sell it to him at a loss of 2 or 3c and then catch it back at a pair of fine shoes at $2.25, that the Cash sells at $1.85 or a suit of clothing at $12.50 that the Cash sells at $10. This way of doing the Cash tries to avoid, but sells every thing at the lowest possible price, regardless of what others are doing. Send and get my prices gentlemen and cut under a cent or so, in this way you can catch the trade and win the battle, and like the poor monkey who comes to count the cost and see that your treasure is all exhausted, think the victory dearly won. When you cut below the Cash store rates you are getting hurt, and in place of rejoicing it ought to excite in the breast of every good Wheeler a feeling of regret.

The Cash man is running the business at the lowest possible rate, and
